WOMEN WIN OUT IN THEIR OPPOSITION TO MEN WHO SOLICIT FOR OUTSIDE SOCIETIES

After a most interesting discussion last night of the merits of the appeal of the Utah Children's Home society, the board of directors of the Merchants of Ogden, before whom the hearing was held, voted unanimously against granting a permit letter to the financial representative to solicit among the local merchants.

The reason for denying the privilege of soliciting among the members of the Merchants was because it could not be satisfactorily shown by the representatives of the Utah Children's Home society that the society's work in Weber county is not a duplication of the work now being conducted through the activities of the Children's Aid society and the Martha society.

During the meeting some statements were made by the women representatives of the two local organizations and by Judge Dan Sullivan of the juvenile court, tending to show that few citizens realize the extent of the work that has been carried on here for more than ten years.

Mrs. Maud D. Porter explained the work of the Martha society, stating that there is entire harmony between that organization and the Children's Aid society; that they do not overlap in their work because each has its own field, and that they cooperate to the extent of notifying each other when ever one comes upon a case that should be handled by the other.

Mrs. John Culley, toward the close of the meeting and just before the vote was taken, gave a most interesting talk on the work of the Children's Aid society. The report which she rendered so impressed the members of the Merchants' organization that there was not a dissenting vote when the matter of rejecting support for the outside organization was taken. The vote dispensary. She told of hospital work, home work, work for the mothers and the orphans and of the investigation of individual cases as well as the home-finding work. She said that the society now had in its care children of six counties of the state and also some of Idaho, the members paying their own expenses in many instances for investigations regarding the children. Fourteen children are held now in the custody of the organization.

Immediately following the explanation by Mrs. Culley, the merchants went on record, informally, as favoring larger subscriptions for the two societies and President Lewis stated that if anything could be done to assist in raising funds it would be done so the work could even be expanded. Then followed resolutions which indicated that the Merchants of Ogden do not approve of the solicitations of funds in this city for the Utah Home Finding association.

COTTON FOR BEST

It has only been within the last few years that cottons were produced in as attractive designs as silks or woolen fabrics. The fact that cottons were cheaper has kept manufacturers from thinking it worth while employing high priced designers in producing new and attractive designs. So from year to year our gingham and calicoes have been printed and woven in much the same way and it is only when we bought silk that we got the most attractive designs. This is still the case to a certain extent, for there is still much to be done in this matter of making cottons more attractive. Still, we can get cotton fabrics that are immensely satisfactory and we no longer feel that we must don silk or woolen if we would be suitably dressed for the street or for formal occasions. Evening gowns that are immensely attractive are made of organdies and voiles of cotton, and street gowns that are appropriate for any sort of occasion are made in cotton foulards and other cotton fabrics.

If you can make your own frocks then you can have all sorts of attractive frocks at comparatively small expense. But even if you have to buy them they are not prohibitive, for despite the high cost of labor the manufacturers are managing to put out good frocks of cotton at a reasonable price. One attractive frock that is put out by one of the manufacturers that would be suitable for any sort of street wear is of cotton foulard with long bell sleeves and a round neck with a collar of white organdie. The bodice extends into hip length peplums and there is a wide girdle of the poplin, making a sort of Russian blouse effect, thus producing somewhat the effect of a jacket, which we have come to regard as more suitable for outdoor wear.

For the busy housewife there is always wisdom in selecting a house frock that has short sleeves, for the task of unbuttoning long sleeves and properly folding them back whenever one has to go about any household work is not worth the advantage of having long sleeves. And in the new frocks shown this spring there are many that have short sleeves.

GAY LININGS

As to linings? There you have a glorious field in which to play. It is the day of linings and their beauty and fascination are only controlled by your taste—and money bag.

Skin Treatment

When first youth has passed it is necessary to pay particular attention to the skin. Cold water should be used sparingly to keep the tissues firm and cold cream should be used to massage the face and neck every night. By this method, while you cannot hope to remove all the lines on your face, you can at least avoid the multitudinous wrinkles seen on one who shuns the use of cold water and cold cream. If you are weary after a fatiguing day lie down in a well ventilated room for ten or fifteen minutes before dinner. Then rise and clean your face with cold cream, rubbing it always up. Now apply a cloth, wet in very hot water, and then in very cold water. Pat the face dry and you will feel ten years younger for the rest and facial treatment.

The Old Gardener Says:

That the proper method of dealing with cabbage worms early in the season is to use them with arsenate of lead. This is a poison, to be sure, but there is no danger to human beings in applying it because the cabbage grows from the inside out. It will kill the cabbage worm very promptly, however, and is far more effective than road dust, lime, soot or any other of the remedies commonly offered. You use the arsenate of lead as a liquid spray or apply it dry in the morning when there is dew on the leaves. If you follow the latter plan, it will be economy to use one part poison with three parts slaked lime or flour.

UMBRELLA COVERS

A novelty in the world of umbrellas is the leather cover that is replacing the old one of silk. There is much to commend the cover of leather. In the first place, it makes the umbrella much smarter, as the covers conform closely to the shape of the umbrella and there is no unusual bulk.

Some of the covers are in pigskin in natural color, while others are in leather that has been dyed.

Vessel From Suva Arrives At Honolulu 75 Days Overdue

HONOLULU, T. H., July 1.—The small schooner Luka arrived here today from Suva, capital of the Fiji group, 75 days over due and with her supplies and crew nearly exhausted and her master ill.

A typhoon struck the Luka soon after she left Suva, disabled her rigging and forced her from her course. She touched Jaluit island in the Marshall group and made temporary repairs. Leaving the island the vessel encountered adverse winds and was forced to a wide detour around the Hawaiian group, sailing 5,000 miles more than the distance ordinarily to be covered.

When the Luka arrived here her meat and flour was exhausted and she carried but little water in her casks. Illness of the ship's master and crew was caused by lack of provisions, but it was said all will recover.

Vast Crowds Protest Against High Cost of Living In Italy

FORLÌ, Italy, July 2.—(By The Associated Press.)—After a great meeting here yesterday in which a vast crowd protested against the high cost of living, the people, excited by inflammatory speeches, attacked, sacked and destroyed many shops which refused to sell commodities at lower prices. The fury of the mob made no distinction and had no limits. All the principal shops were plundered, and the mobs controlled the entire city. They took possession of Lorries and transported all kinds of goods and food supplies from the pillaged shops to the chamber of labor. On the walls of this chamber they wrote: "These goods are at the disposal of the people."

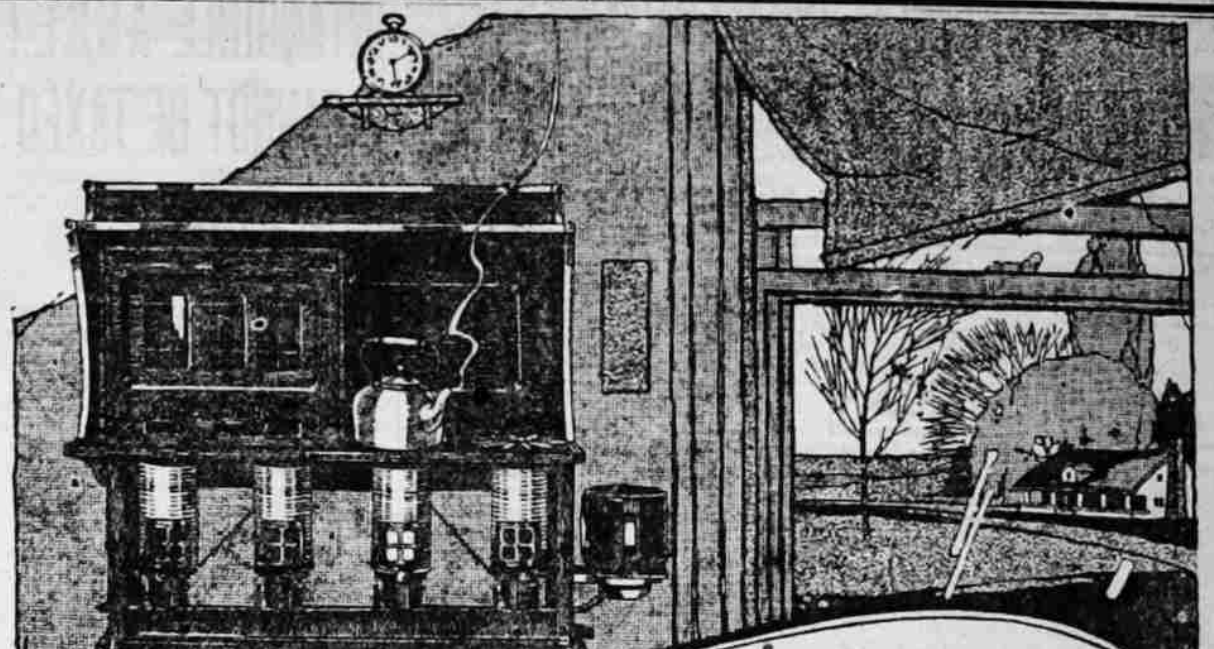

The situation grew worse during the day, assuming a revolutionary character and the mob continued to loot and destroy all kinds of property. The food riots here, however, differ fundamentally from those at Spezia early in June. At Spezia the rioters looted for their own advantage, while at Forlì, most of what was taken from

At the time the United States and Germany were not at war and the case proved quite troublesome to the federal authorities.

MORE INFORMATION FOR THE BUYERS OF EATS

Here we are again. Last week our time was so fully occupied attending the National Convention that we had no time to write. It is said by those who have been attending many conventions that this one was the best one they ever attended. It was not the most largely attended but in business transacted and entertainment given, it was some convention. There was not an idle moment from 9:30 in the morning until 11 o'clock at night. We listened to several excellent addresses by noted speakers. We wish we could tell you about some of them. We heard a number of talks by "Cash and Carry Men," on what they considered the best way to conduct a cash and carry business. A local cash and carry store used a whole advertisement in try to belittle the convention. He should have been there. It was shown there that the difference in cost of operation was about 3 1/2 per cent. It was also shown that the cash and carry store made more money than the service store—or in other words the service store gave more value to the customer in service and goods than does the cash and carry store. That is just what we have always contended.

There is a place for both kind of stores and it was shown that over 80 per cent of the business of the country is done by the service store and less than 20 per cent by the cash and carry store.

5c coffee house or the Hotel Utah, with all classes of service in between, and you pay for what you get. We operate a service store and give a limited service. We do not deliver any little orders at any time, but we do give what we consider adequate service for the majority of the people, and it is so systematized that each customer pays very little considered with the service given. We invite you to become a regular customer and enjoy the advantages that a service store can give.

We will close all day Friday and be open all day Saturday. We do not think it fair to our customers to close three days in succession in the summer-time especially.
